Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 14 April 2004.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☒ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hideo et al. (JP 62-136759) OR Mikiaki et al. (JP 2000-077,054.)

The instant claims are to a cylindrical battery comprising an electrode group formed from battery electrode plates of a positive electrode and a negative electrode spirally wound with a separator interposed there between; and a cylindrical battery case for housing said electrode group; at least one of the battery electrode plates being manufactured by a method comprising an active material impregnation step for impregnating an entire porous core substrate shaped like a thin plate with an active material, a pressing step for performing press working on said active material impregnated core substrate to form a plurality of rail shaped protrusions, an active material removal step for removing the active material to form core substrate exposed sections by applying ultrasonic vibrations to said rail shaped protrusions; a flattening step for compressing said core substrate exposed sections down to an identical level with other sections; and a cutting step for cutting predetermined sections including said core substrate exposed sections to form a battery electrode plate.

The references teach a cylindrical battery comprising an electrode group formed from battery electrode plates of a positive electrode and a negative electrode spirally wound with a separator interposed there between; and a cylindrical battery case for housing said electrode group. The references do not teach the process of making the battery as noted in the product claim. MPEP 2113 states, "Even though product-by-process claims are limited by and defined by the process, determination of patentability is based on the product itself. The patentability of a product does not depend on its method of production. If the product in the product-by-process claim is the same as or obvious from a product of the prior art, the claim is unpatentable even though the prior product was made by a different process." Thus, the references read upon the product and the claims are anticipated.
